

Learning is a life-long process and we recognise that our educators have to progress together with the changes in the societies they serve. We are always seeking out the best and most innovative aspects of modern education worldwide for Singapore and its schools.

By providing structured learning opportunities and engaging our members in continuing education, we believe that our school leaders will gain insights into the latest thinking and practices from a global perspective, and hence further develop their professional and personal capabilities.

"APS aids in the professional development of principals through both formal and informal training platforms. APS also exposes its members to differing views and new perspectives on education."

- Mr Tharman Shanmugaratnam, Minister for Education, 2004
