The Language of Leadership

The Academy of Principals (Singapore) is organising its 9th Global Educational Leadership Conference

Leadership has long been identified with vision and goals and with the systems that would make the same

Nowhere is this more needed than in education and in schools where learning is as much a work of the

The Academy has invited international speakers as well as our own from Singapore, to share with us wh

In 2018, the Conference is reaching out to other school systems and to those in our neighbouring countries.

The Global Educational Leadership Conference has been an Annual Conference since 2014.

What Past Delegates said about the GELC?

An interesting mix of expertise and backgrounds of the speakers.

The Keynote addresses are thought provoking and inspiring

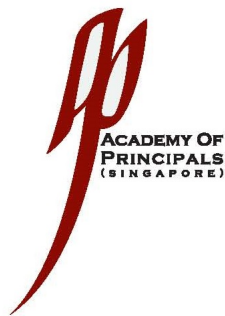

It was good to invite someone from the corporate side to share their perspective about change and how schools should prepare the students.

The type of information provided by various key note speakers allows us to reflect how we can better educate our future generation and motivate the school as an organisation to embrace change.
